"Thanks for purchasing Unwell known[®]. Maybe this would not be your typical experience with this kind of games. And that's ok. Maybe you'll a little uncomfortable when you play it... It's fine to feel this kind of sensation. But mostly this game it's made to be fun and you can experience a different kind of platformer. Maybe you can address a lot of things that can be changed? Unfortunately, this thing has to wait. Thanks for taking the risk of buying this game. We hope you enjoy the final product that you have. I hope you enjoy your play time, in a cozy shade. Have a nice day."

BORDERWALL

-THE HISTORY BEFORE-

THE WELL KNOWN

The Border Wall it's a sacred place that divides two zones of one nation. People that accept their fate, like to be far away from this place. But the one that wants to be something else, has to assume there would be another white face, a masked one if they try to pass to the other side. They have to face the fact that no one want to be with them, so they support each other.

Until Priest start to guide the people to their new fate or at least try to help.

This division is unnatural and people start to feel that, but what it's most important thing: Traditions or start again, but gain some more time to be alive. It's hard to start again, being a white face.

"The cost of the bright places are the shades we create."

THE FOXHOUNDS

-D4310 IT'S READY-

D3410 is the son of a frontier border patrol and a rebel shadow guard. Years pass and he starts saying how they never stop arguing about everything. One day D3410's aunt told him about a sunflower that can save every relationship and a place where he could find fields of them, the only problem was they can only grow on the other side of the wall and getting there was a death sentence. One day while mom and dad were arguing he took his stuff and snook out of the house, determined and ready to fix everything with the

Sunflower

PD: Ok, I am a kid, what were you expecting, logic?

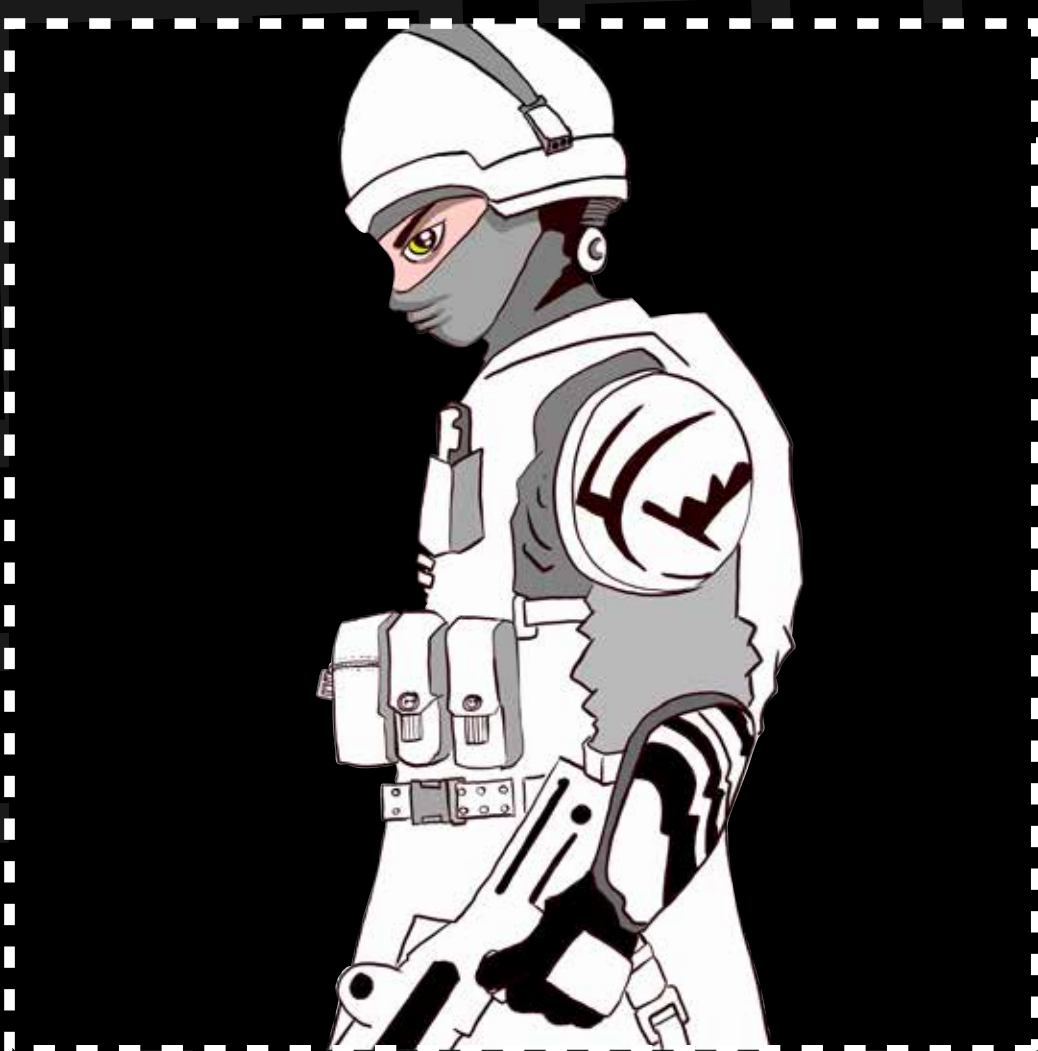

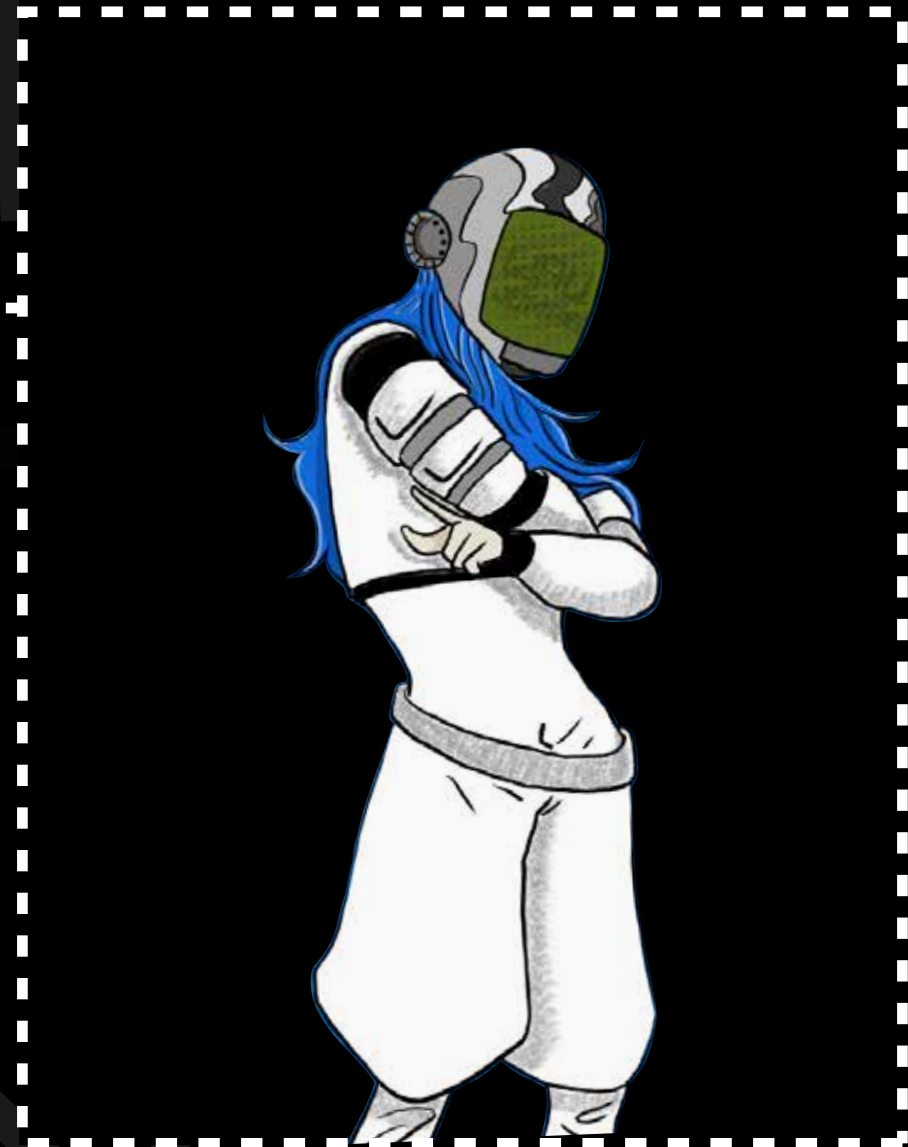

HOME IS WHERE -THE HEART DWELLS-

The Border Wall Bright Patrols or B.W.B.P it's the division that protects the Border wall but they use drones for their duty. They will do everything to protect the border wall.

The wall jumpers (or Maskeds) They move between shades and bright sides. They keep the balance but no one likes what they do. But it needs to be done. Everyone has his role.

The Shade Patrol. It's a special division that works to keep the order in the shade area or at least they try. This forces work to the bright side. But some factions identify themselves as Shades. But this The group has one rule. Keep the order as it is until the end. Keeping focus in the big problems of the borders.
